Introduction

First of all, congratulations and thank you for downloading The New All Weather Favourites System!

All the way back in 2010 I developed the original All Weather Favourites system which went on to huge success for its many users.

Sadly the original system has started to show its age over the last couple of years with some of the original trainers having retired or (in the case of the late, great Michael Jarvis) left us all together and the fortunes of others beginning to wane.

I felt now was the perfect time to revisit the methodology and identify the latest crop of training maestros who should not be ignored when they have a well backed runner on the All Weather.

Even the most amateur punter is aware that blindly backing favourites in any context is a quick route to the poorhouse. However, favourite backing, if a profitable edge can be found, is easily the most attractive, low risk punting proposition available. By definition, backing favourites produces shorter losing runs than with any other market position.

The shorter losing runs produced by backing favourites are desirable for a number of reasons:

- less psychologically taxing
- can be operated with a smaller betting bank
- you can be sure that the system has a profitable edge far more quickly than if you were backing outsiders
- your returns can be leveraged

For these reasons, when I started this research, I was keen to find an angle that allowed me to back favourites profitably. And boy, did I find one!

The System

The rules of this system are simple but very effective.

Back the following trainers when their horses are favourite at any of the UK's All Weather tracks – Chelmsford City, Kempton, Lingfield, Newcastle, Southwell or Wolverhampton (make sure you check that it is an All Weather meeting rather than turf at Kempton, Lingfield and Newcastle!):

- RMH Cowell
- CA Dwyer
- JG Given
- Richard Hannon (Jnr)
- DK Ivory
- GG Margaron
- B Smart
- Sir Michael Stoute
- Roger Varian
- Ian Williams

Once you have identified potential qualifiers, check their favouritism status in the morning betting market. In most cases, it will be obvious whether the runner will be favourite or not. However, on odd occasions, you will need to monitor the betfair market just before the off before placing your bet to ensure that the runner actually goes off favourite.

The rules are so simple you might think it unlikely that such a system could be profitable but you would be very wrong. Backing to level stakes of £100 since January 2012 would have produced profits of £16,949 at industry SP.

Backing at Betfair Starting price (less 5% commission) would have made life even better with £100 bets producing profits of £18,948.80 in the same period

It is also worth remembering that these profits have been produced from only 729 bets in over 4 and a half years – an average of 1 bet every 2 or 3 days. It makes the perfect addition to a portfolio of systems aimed at consistent capital growth over the long term.

Statistics

Below is a table that shows important statistics when analysing the system. Profit and loss for these purposes is calculated at Betfair SP( -5%):

Best Year	+46.90 pts
Worst year	+16.91 points
Longest Winning Run	8
Longest Losing Run	10
Overall Profit	+170.12 pts

Staking Plan

Be wary of systems sellers that advocate the use of a staking plan to overcome flaws in their product. A system worth its salt will usually hold its own to level staking, and The AW Favourites System does just that.

Great profits can be made using a level staking plan. The graph below shows growth of betting bank since January 2012 betting £100 level stakes.

However, more excitingly, vastly increased profits can be produced using the power of compounding. The graph overleaf shows growth when staking 5% on all selections starting with a £200 bank and recalculating your stake after each bet.

A very conservative staking of 5% of your bank on each selection has produced profits of £132,474.67 over the last 5 years! Now, clearly, you're getting close to the limit of the stakes you could get on at that point but it shows just how powerful a percentage staking plan can be when allied with a high strike rate, reliable winner finding system.

So there you have it - an easy to operate system that produces consistent profits year after year for a very small investment of time I think it makes a great addition to any cautious growth betting portfolio.

Good Luck
